

MOST'S INCENDIARY SPEECH.

POLICEMEN REPEAT TO THE JURY WHAT THE ANARCHIST SAID.

A Big Crowd of Witnesses for the Prisoner Fill the General Sessions Court—A Jury Obtained Without Much Difficulty—The Stenographer Who Took Down His Speech Conversant With German.

The resumption of the trial of Herr Johann Most before Judge Cowing, in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions this morning, brought another great crowd of curious people to the brown-stone court-house, but three people out of every four who applied for admission to the court chamber were turned away by the doorkeeper, who had orders to admit no one not connected with the trial as lawyer, witness or reporter.

Notwithstanding all this, there were not seats for all the people who were permitted to enter, for there were fifty men and women who presented subpoenas as witnesses for Herr Most. They had been at attendance at the meeting of Anarchists in Kraemer's Hall, on Saturday evening, Nov. 12, when the speech which is alleged to have been incendiary was uttered by Most. These witnesses for the most part were the marks which distinguish the believers in Anarchism from other people.

There was an utter disregard for appearances in dress, hair and beard, were strange and unkempt, and eyes flamed that hunted expression which has been so frequently described by novelists.

The appearance of Herr Most, wearing a red robe in the lapel of his new undergarment, agitated the cognates of those whose sense of the fitness of things was acute.

Editor Jonas, of the Volk-Zeitung, Sergius Shevitch, Hugo Vogt and other prominent Socialists were in the audience.

MR. DREYFUS WITH A BLOOD-RED TIE. Elbridge T. Gerry was present in court till Mrs. Eliza King, a heavy-faced woman who had been twice convicted of corrupting the morals of her own fourteen-year-old daughter, had been sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Joseph Brown, an old and gray-haired man, who had tried to end his own life by cutting his throat, was arraigned. He was swathed in bandages and limped to the rail.

There were eleven men in the jury-box for the trial of Herr Most. The jurors were examined as to their qualifications for the duty.

Patrick Hall, real estate dealer at 729 East Ninth street, was accepted and took the oath.

John L. Redman, grocer at 330 Spring street, was accepted, and the jury was sworn in by Clerk Hall at 11:05 o'clock.

THE MEN WHO WILL TRY MOST. The jury which will try Herr Most is composed as follows:

Foreman—Alfred J. Goodman, house-mover, 75 East Eighth street.

John L. Redman, grocer, 330 Spring street.

Samuel Worms, dealer in extracts, 539 Washington street.

Henry Wasserman, tobacconist, 160 West street.

William Lawson, oil dealer, 610 West Forty-fifth street.

Sullivan Oppenheimer, diamond dealer, 35 Maiden lane.

James Lehman, secretary of the Universal Brotherhood Company, 90 South Fifth avenue.

T. Henry W. Dodge, real estate speculator, 618 East Avenue.

William H. Fowler, publisher of the Illustrated London News reprint.

Michael J. Mulvaney, feed dealer, 1553 Lexington avenue.

Patrick Caffrey, retired truckman, 303 East Seventh street.

Patrick Hall, real estate broker, 938 East Ninth street.

MR. NICOLL DEFINES MOST'S OFFENSE. Assistant District Attorney De Lanoy Nicoll addressed the jury at 11:55. Among the things said by Mr. Nicoll were these:

The defendant is indicted for misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment in the Penitentiary instead of prison. It is a minor offense. Treason is defined as the attempt of persons to overthrow government. This is not treason, but may be seen that a step further might have been treason.

No man can be held to answer unless indicted by a grand jury. He is arrested, and he is charged, and a jury selected or accepted by his counsel must try him and must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of his guilt before he can be punished. The clause of the statute under which this charge is made, says that an assembly in which it is threatened to do anything unlawful, and which is the cause of the disturbance, is a conspiracy.

Mr. Nicoll said that the jury, that in order to ascertain whether the speech of Herr Most tended to create a breach of the peace or was dangerous to the Government it must be known what the speaker said. He said that the jury must make the most accurate record of the Chamber of Commerce or the Faculty of Columbia College without the least danger of

ROYALTY AND THE GAULS.

FRANCE EXCITED BY THE RUMORS OF AN UPRISING.

President Grevy Holds Firm—Men, Women and Boys Marched by the Elysee Today Shouting and Singing—Report that Count Paris Will Enter the Capital at the Head of the French Army.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The Government deadlock continues. President Grevy announces that he will consult different members of the Chamber until he finds some one who will undertake to form a Cabinet.

M. Ferry and M. Dreyfus, visited the Elysee this morning. It is possible that M. Dreyfus may consent to act.

M. Mare, Radical, has also visited President Grevy. He said to-day: "Grevy better go. But the great danger which threatens the Republic comes from Gen. Boulanger and Count Paris."

A meeting of Royalists has been called to-day. The Royalists are mustering in the provinces. There is a rumor to the effect that Gen. Boulanger will be chief of the army, and that Count Paris will enter the capital at the head of the Royalist forces.

This morning men, women and boys, headed by bands, marched around the Elysee waving red flags and singing the popular refrain: "Quelle Malheur d'avoir un Gendre."

The police and military are on guard.

MANDEVILLE NAKED IN TULLAMORE.

His Only Raiment Now is a Wretched Old Bed-Quilt—His Clothes Taken.

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—The city is startled to-day by the announcement in the Evening Telegraph that Mr. Mandeville was forcibly stripped of his own clothes last night in his cell in Tullamore prison.

Mr. Mandeville has refused to wear the prison garb since entering the jail, and slept nightly in his own suit.

The Telegraph states that in the quiet of the night a gang of warders were led into Mr. Mandeville's cell, and, with much violence, stripped him, leaving him naked for the remainder of the night.

The Telegraph adds that it had been the custom of the officials to deprive him each day of his bedclothes lest he should lie down to rest. We have reliable information that Mr. Mandeville has spent the morning pacing his cell, denuded of clothes and covered over by the wretched bed-quilt which he has retained.

Mr. Mandeville is Mr. O'Brien's fellow-prisoner.

Don Juan's (Cousin as a Bourbon.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Don Juan, father of Don Carlos, of Spain, died on Friday at Brighton. Don Carlos claims that by the death of his father he becomes the legitimate King of France, as well as of Spain, by virtue of his place in the Bourbon family.

Arranging for a Puellistic Pow-Wow.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Sullivan sends word from Manchester that he will meet Mitchell here on Monday next to arrange for a fight to a finish.

MENIL AS A SMUGGLER.

He Runs Cattle Into Canada at Night, but Has to Drive Them Back.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 23.—A lady resident of Clinton, Mass., recently told a friend in this city a story which shows that in his voluntary exile in a country where he is beyond the pale of the law, McNeil, the defaulting Lancaster bank president, has not forgotten his old tricks. It seems that when he first appeared in the place—just over the Canadian line—a year and a half ago, he represented himself as having removed to Canada on a doctor's advice.

He bought a farm for which he paid about $4,000, which he asserted was about all the money that he had. He represented to the customs officers that he owned some fine Holstein cattle, which he desired to bring from the States and which he hoped to go across the line without paying duty. He was poor, having lost the most of his property, and he hoped that he might be favored to take the few cattle across customs.

He had no discretion in the matter and could not abate the duty.

A short time afterwards he was sent for by McNeil, who showed him the cattle in his yard and said that he had driven them over from the States in the night. The officer was astounded and said that he should most certainly not tolerate any such trifling with the law, but should insist upon the payment of duty. McNeil finally persuaded him to allow the cattle to be driven back, and the next night they were returned to the States and sold at a sacrifice.

A Policeman's Lively Fight.

While Policeman Fucien was taking Daniel O'Connell and John McMurphy to the station-house at New Brighton, S. I., last night for fighting, he was attacked from behind by Daniel Kane, who drew him down, kicked and stamped on him and endeavored to take his club from him. The policeman quickly regained his feet and drew his revolver. O'Connell and Kane escaped. The remaining prisoner was safely lodged in the lockup.

Kane has been recently returned to the island from the Kings County Penitentiary.

A Policeman Who Was Never Sober.

Capt. Guaner, of the East Fifty-ninth street station, brought charges against Patrolman Christopher Clark, of his squad, before Commissioner Goehle this morning, for being intoxicated on duty on Oct. 23. In his testimony before the Commissioner, the captain said that since Clark had been arrested, he had not been on duty for several months, he had never seen the man when not under the influence of liquor. The Board will act on Clark's case.

Police Employees Married.

Two well-known employees at Police Headquarters have joined the grand army of Benedicts. Charles Grant, private secretary to Commissioner McLaughlin, married to-day in New Jersey an heiress. The bride is the daughter of Charles Francis Kelley, who was killed in the Court of Special Sessions last Friday.

Littlewood Lending at 3 O'clock. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—The score in the foot-race at 3 o'clock was: Littlewood, 306; Albert, 276; Hancock, 267; Korman, 260; Elson, 265.

BUCKET-SHOPS RAIDED.

Detectives Visit Two Establishments in New Street.

War on the bucket-shops was resumed by the police to-day, and Walter C. Ellis, of the Standard Stock Company (Limited), at 38 New Street, and George Hart, of S. Hart & Co., at 59 New Street, were arrested and will be arraigned in the Tombs Police Court this afternoon.

Ever since the conviction under the gambling law of Elliott W. Todd, the King of bucket-shop people in this city, his place has been closed, but the other shops have been running as usual and with an increased business, profiting by the custom which had hitherto been given to Todd.

At 11:30 A. M. to-day Detective-Sergt. Jacob Von Gerichten, chief of Inspector Byrne's Wall Street Bureau, and three other detectives, met at the headquarters of the bureau in the Stock Exchange building, and made their way down New Street. Two of them went into Hart's place, where a brisk business was going on, and tapping one of the proprietors on the shoulder, told him that he was under arrest.

Both of the arrested men had meanwhile entered the large establishment of the Standard Stock Company at 38, on the opposite side of the street.

This latter place, next to Todd's, is the largest of the bucket-shops of the kind in New York. The room was filled to overflowing when the officers entered and a search for the proprietor was begun.

They all succeeded in getting home first, and as the second favorite, Ida West, also succeeded, the bookmakers had to give up some of their winnings on the first two races.

The fourth race was also won by the favorite Tuna after a sharp struggle with the outsider John Lewis. The bookmakers' place at ten pounds above the scale, was also won by the favorite, Lancastrer, with 21 to 1 odds.

Previous to the racing to-day there was a sale of thoroughbreds, the property of W. Hueston. The property was sold as follows:

Nina W. K. J. 2, by Lake Blackburn, dam Mary Walton; Gabe Caldwell, $1,000.

Rowdy, 1, by Casino, dam Bridget; Gabe Caldwell, $1,000.

Silver Star, 6, by Jack Hardy, dam Annie Wagon, $1,000.

Long Branch, Nov. 23.—For a few hours yesterday it looked as though Christopher Stinax, his wife and two sons were going to die because they drank henbane by mistake for coffee, but this morning it looks as though they might pull through. Mr. Stinax is an engineer. Yesterday afternoon he gathered some seeds of an unknown plant in a common grocery bag and placed upon the cupboard with the stock of groceries.

Mrs. Stinax, when preparing breakfast, grabbed the paper bag containing the henbane seeds, and as they were ripe and perfectly dried she in her haste mistook them for coffee. The entire family drank a portion and in about an hour after this the four members of the family suffered agonies.

They all suffered agonies till Dr. Hunt arrived and administered antidotes. The convulsions of Mr. Stinax and his son were horrible.

JOCKEY SPELLMAN DEAD.

Nothing Yet Discovered of the Manner in Which He Was Injured.

John Spellman, the jockey, died at St. Vincent's Hospital this morning.

His death was due to injuries, said to have been received in West Thirtieth street during a row on Tuesday night last week. No report of the affair was made to the police, and the coroner was not called to take an ante-mortem examination. Spellman's death was reported at the coroner's office this morning and Coroner Levy will investigate.

Spellman's friends have been very careful to hide the scene and occasion of his injuries. Those who have been to the hospital to inquire to locate the place in Thirtieth street where Spellman was so severely mauled. Up to this morning they had not succeeded in discovering it or getting any strong clue.

ALICE AND HER 300 PENNIES.

Evidence Which Shows that Jumbo's Widow Had a Good Appetite.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 23.—Prof. Lequin, of New York, assisted by Dr. Godfrey, of this city, dissected the carcass of the elephant Alice, burned in Sunday's fire at the Barnum & Bailey winter quarters.

In the stomach was found over three hundred pounds, packed in a four can, four can pebbles, a piece of lead pipe and some other things.

The lower harbor is still floating aued there. Mr. Barnum has offered a reward of $1,000 for information that will lead to the capture of the incendiary.

New York Litanies Heaten in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The Gas Trust case was dismissed in Judge Horton's court this morning at the cost of the New York Litanies. The suit was brought in behalf of the Hoffman estate holding 400 shares and $150,000 has been paid by the trust for these. The estate holds 1,300 shares of stock of the Chicago Gaslight and Coke Company, and sold 900 to the Gas Trust before the attorneys thought they found something irregular in the proceedings, and on strength of the remaining shares suit was brought to enjoin the trust from issuing a proposed mortgage and bonds.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 23.—Citizen George Francis Train has wired his former private secretary, George P. Bemis, of this city, from Bangor, Me., that he felt sure that his daughter and the children and birds of Madison Square were pulling him back and that he had abandoned the idea of ex-patriation.

Bidding High to See Mrs. Potter.

NEWARK, Nov. 23.—About twenty orchestra seats were to-day sold by auction for Mrs. James Brown Potter's engagement in Newark next week. They brought $150 premium on the regular price. Many society people here have already seen the actress in New York.

Violating the Child Labor Law.

CORHOS, Nov. 23.—The Recorder's Court was crowded to-day with persons arrested for violating the Child Labor law. Most of them could not speak English. The cases were put off until next Tuesday.

CLIFTON'S HEAVY TRACK

Favorite and Non-Favorites Dividing the Honors.

The Weather Warm and Threatening, but a Good Crowd Present to Bet.

The Track Heavy and the Time Slow—Ella Rosenthal, Bridget Keaton, Little Mickey, Tuna and Lancastrer the Winners—Entries and Probable Starters To-Morrow at Clifton, Guttenberg and Fleetwood.

Judge C. C. Wheeler and A. H. Batterley, Secretary W. H. Hueston, Starter—Gabe Caldwell

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) CLIFTON RACE TRACK, N. J., Nov. 23.—Although the weather was somewhat threatening this noon there is a large attendance. The day is quite mild and the track decidedly heavy.

The racing began with the usual wagers for the favorite. For the first, Ella Rosenthal, after trying for nearly two years, actually succeeded in winning, with the favorite, Gold Bond, second. For the second race, the success of Bridget Keaton over Sweetie, who finished third, was almost as great a surprise. In the third race the favorite, Little Mickey, succeeded in getting home first, and as the second favorite, Ida West, also succeeded, the bookmakers had to give up some of their winnings on the first two races.

The fourth race was also won by the favorite Tuna after a sharp struggle with the outsider John Lewis. The bookmakers' place at ten pounds above the scale, was also won by the favorite, Lancastrer, with 21 to 1 odds.
